

Scientific Materialism and Ultimate Conceptions (Classic Reprint)

If these teachings are accepted God (if they admit such) is unthinkable ;Life and mind molecular arrangements ;Vitality, electrical or physical force ;Man, a sensible automaton ;Creation, but the potency of matter ;the casual displacing the actual, the methods of Nature become the Causal fact, and Man's Immortality, final in the expression of Fame. Thus bereft of God, as a Creator and Providence, and of Immortality thinking man in death meets annihilation. The object of this treatise is to discuss these dicta in plain language ;and when words are used which have a scientific as well as a general meaning, the latter is to be taken. The effort has been made to probe the methods of nature as disclosed in her mechanics, chemistry and physics, and to find, as far as may be, the ultimates on which the Kosmos is reared, whereby each reader may arrive at a conclusion, without having wholly to rely upon authoritative dogma. Authority should be accepted only when supported by evidences ;these evidences, reflected upon and discussed, may then be allowed to stand in the place of an independent idea. Hypotheses are indispensable to research, but they should be examined with a rigid scepticism, for scientific imagination is only misleading when scepticism is lulled. The method of nature is to be sought in the grand generalizations of Malpighi, Grove, and Darwin. Principles are the bases of the Kosmos ;Infinitesimals, its explanation. A knowledge of these infinitesimals constitutes Science ;Philosophy has broader distinctions and a deeper aim. Our perceptions of external objects are sense effects exciting consciousness ;our conceptions, ideas as units in intelligence impressed on the consciousness ;and when impressed, the impulsions by which we Will, Direct, and Control.(Typographical errors above are due to OCR software and dont occur in the book.)About the Publisher Forgotten Books is a publisher of
